

About N.E.mation!

N.E.mation! is a competition for youths to express their personal ideas on Total Defence through animation. In Season 6, we are inviting students from secondary schools, junior colleges and centralised institutions to once again put on their thinking caps, unleash their creative juices and express themselves by submitting engaging and compelling stories. The ten shortlisted finalist teams will receive animation training to convert their story ideas into one-minute animation clips.

Content Development Workshops

Free content development workshops will be organized to equip students and teachers with valuable story creation skills and storyboarding techniques during the registration period. There will also be sharing of case studies and ideas on the competition theme, with experienced animation instructors offering insights and tips on story generation.

1. Public Sessions

The public sessions are designed to help participants in their story creation for the competition. The emphasis will be on understanding and interpretation of the theme to derive compelling animation ideas. Apart from getting an introduction and overview of story creation techniques and tips, the students will also have break out story clinic sessions where they are given the opportunity to have one-on-one consultations with the animation instructors.

Interested teachers and students can sign up on a first-come-first-served basis at www.nemation.sg from 22 June 2011.

2. Private Sessions for Individual Schools

These private sessions for individual schools will be specially conducted for schools that can commit a minimum of 40, or up to a maximum of 50 students for the competition. Schools are required to provide a computer lab with internet access as the venue for the workshops. By the end of the 4-hour workshop, each team will have at least 1 story ready for submission!

Each school is limited to 1 workshop on a first-come-first-served basis. We are providing private sessions for up to 40 schools only, so hurry and register now by filling in the attached reply form!

Note: All Content Development Workshops are provided free-of-charge to the teachers and students. As vacancies are limited, please register only if you are committed and able to attend.
